The CARL's collection of approximately 270,000 books covers all aspects of military science: joint and combined operations; tactics and doctrinal development; leadership, intelligence, weapons, equipment, and training. The Archives and Special Collections house a unique collection of over 200,000 items. The documents collection consists of another 250,000. Each year, the CARL reference staff answers some 30,000 queries for soldiers, faculty and staff here at Fort Leavenworth and throughout the world via the Defense Digital Library Reference Service.

Scholars, writers and the DoD community use the Combined Arms Research Library's archival materials, extensive research materials, and historical documents. CGSC students, family members and other Ft. Leavenworth community patrons have come to expect current and broad-based reference information and popular materials from the CARL. Over the years, the library has grown with its users and today serves a community diverse in interests, needs, and age. The Combined Arms Research Library has entered the 21st century as one of the largest and most respected libraries in the Army.
